Perfectly Remote and Utterly Enchanting

Ardtornish House becomes the backdrop for your celebrations. Set among our vast woodland gardens, this much-loved, historic Victorian mansion, becomes your secluded home-away-from-home - the setting for you and your guests to enjoy your special day in style.

Ceremony

The perfect wedding day demands the ideal setting. What could be more fitting than one of Scotland's finest 19th Century mansions? The ornately carved sweeping staircase and coffered ceilings of the Great Hall provides an attention-grabbing entrance from which to be received by your guests. Wherever you choose to exchange your vows it'll be wonderful: lochside amid our ancient woodlands, inside with our opulent interiors, on the Alpine Meadow in the garden, or in the more traditional nearby Keil or Kingairloch Churches.

Reception

Ardtornish House is a veritable treasure trove of elegant Victorian architecture and opulent interiors. Your guests can enjoy a Champagne reception on the airy South Wing landing, swap stories by the warmth of the fire in The Drawing Room or relax in The Library, with the Grand Piano providing the soundtrack. The aptly named Great Hall is ideal for wedding breakfasts and receptions, with capacity for 80 seated guests for formal dinners.

Evening Entertainment

The Great Hall is spacious enough to increase guest numbers to 120 for evening celebrations. With plenty of room for dancing under the chandeliers and endless options for the evening's entertainment. Using our preferred - or your chosen - suppliers, we are happy to share our many years' experience to help guide you during the planning process and bring life to your ideas.

Location

Scotland's West Coast is renowned for its wild landscapes, shimmering lochs and sweeping glens - brilliantly photogenic views at every turn. Ardtornish has inspiring scenery - a special place with deep history and a sense of peace and tranquillity that is very hard to beat. Perfectly remote, but easily accessible, it really offers the best of both worlds. Your journey becomes part of the overall experience and will certainly fire your guests' imaginations ahead of their arrival.

Accommodation

Ardtornish is a unique, exclusive use venue boasting over 100 self-catered bed spaces. Your guests will love their getaway in one of the spacious Victorian Apartments or a traditional stone-built cottage.

Ardtornish House

Ardtornish House is a Grade A listed Victorian building with high ceilings and an abundance of original architectural features. It has been sensitively divided into five unique and spacious apartments accommodating up to 46 of your closest family and friends. The grand features and enormous proportions of the South Wing become 'home' for the bridal party with a four-poster bedroom suite that doesn't disappoint. With Ardtornish House as a base, guests can feel free to explore the grounds and enjoy anything from a quiet game of snooker in the Billiard Room to a bracing dip in the loch!

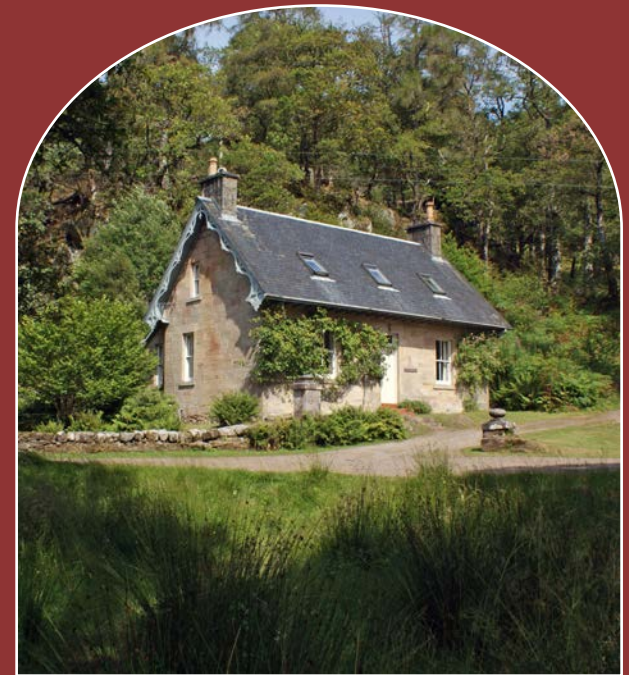

Grand Interiors

Retaining many of its original features, the house never fails to impress with its Victorian grandeur, airy open landings and vast picture-windows overlooking the grounds. Guests can take a soak in one of the traditional Victorian roll-top baths in the marble bathrooms and cosy up next to the open fires found in each apartment. There is even a sauna and a passenger lift to transport both guests and their luggage to the upstairs apartments with ease.

Self-catering Cottages

Our eight stone-built, self-catering cottages vary in style, size and location but all share a few qualities in common – stunning views and comfortable, cosy interiors. They have wood burning stoves and boast either loch or riverside locations. They can accommodate a further 65 people. Many wedding guests are happy to walk the short distance to the main house for the wedding: all are well within a mile of the main house - or we can arrange transport as required. Our self-contained Studio Apartment sleeps 2 and is often used to accommodate the photographer or entertainers.
